

Career

Along with being a student at Sac State I have also been working as an interpreter in the workers compensation field. I have been active in my area of work for 3 years and I really enjoy what i do.

The next step for me is to transition into the role of a software engineer. i am very excited to graduate this semester and i have started applying to positions in the Bay Area. I have focused mostly on mobile development by learning how to code ios applications. I have a couple of projects under my belt and am continuing to learn necessary tools to use on the job.
